RE: Increasing Rat Infestations in New York City Subways

Dear Mr. Prendergast:

As a New York City business owner, I am extremely concerned about cleanliness. My business prides itself on creating an appealing store for our customers. Nothing is more damaging to our customer relations than rats from the City subway system spilling into the streets or neighboring buildings.

I am joining with the TWU to respectfully request that you do everything in your power to put more resources into fixing the rat problem in the subways. Specifically, I request that the MTA put the following measures in place:

- MORE TRASH REMOVAL PICKUPS FROM EACH STATION
- PATCH UP RAT HOLES IN WALLS AND FLOORS
- TIGHT-FITTING LIDS FOR TRASH STORAGE BINS.

Thank you for your assistance and cooperation.

Respectfully,

Business and Signature
